2025 Targeted Community Lending Plan

I. Introduction

The Federal Home Loan Bank Dallas (FHLB Dallas) is a cooperatively owned wholesale financial institution dedicated to serving its member financial institutions and supporting affordable housing and economic growth. The 2025 Targeted Community Lending Plan identifies significant housing and economic development needs and investment opportunities within the communities our members serve. The FHLB Dallas operates several housing and community investment programs that provide funding our members and their development partners can use to invest in communities, support affordable housing production, assist first-time homebuyers, and finance small businesses, creating longer-term economic and community benefits.

Pursuant to the requirements of 12 CFR 1290.6(a)(5), a Bank's annual Targeted Community Lending Plan adopted under its community support program shall, among other things, identify the significant affordable housing needs in its district that will be addressed through its AHP, as well as any specific affordable housing needs it plans to address through any Targeted Funds as set forth in its AHP Implementation Plan. The FHLB Dallas is not offering an AHP Targeted Fund in 2025.

II. Market Study and Needs Analysis

The FHLB Dallas engaged Enterprise Community Partners to conduct the 2024 Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment for the Ninth District. The FHLB Dallas 2024 Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment combines quantitative analysis with a survey of members and community partners to create a comprehensive picture of housing and economic conditions across the District and provide critical feedback regarding FHLB Dallas programs. The goal of the assessment is to facilitate evidence-based decision-making for FHLB Dallas' community investments through 2028.

The quantitative data for the Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment are largely drawn from the 2017 and 2022 American Community Survey (ACS), the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), and state and local resources throughout the District. In partnership with FHLB Dallas, the Enterprise Community Partners surveyed the FHLB Dallas members and community partners to better understand the barriers to homeownership, affordable rental housing, and economic development. The survey supplements the quantitative assessment of housing and economic development needs with invaluable local perspectives. Given that the Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment was completed during the initial months of the pandemic, aspects of the report that reference federal legislation passed during that time are no longer fully applicable.

In addition, the FHLB Dallas will continue to meet with its Advisory Council, community groups, small business development organizations, state housing agencies and FHLB Dallas members on a regular basis to discuss District needs. In addition, the FHLB Dallas continues to enhance its marketing and educational activities for both housing and economic development initiatives.

III. Market Research Analysis Results

Unmet or underutilized opportunities identified by Enterprise Community Partners in the 2024 Housing and Economic Development Needs Assessment for the Ninth District, include:

Housing

- Provide affordable rental housing. There is a need for affordable housing for extremely low and very low-income households in all FHLB Dallas District states. There is a shortage of 7.3 million homes for the 11 million renters in District states with extremely low incomes. Programs that support increasing the production and preservation of affordable housing are needed to close the gap in affordable housing.
- Support pathways to homeownership. Low- and moderate-income (LMI) households face substantial challenges to homeownership including high mortgage rates and increasing housing and insurance costs. Supporting prospective homebuyers with programs such as low-interest home loans, grants, or downpayment assistance can help more LMI households achieve homeownership. Financial literacy can also play a role in readying first-time homebuyers.
- Support Tribal Nations, Tribally Designated Housing Entities (TDHEs), and Tribal citizens. Deploying capital while preserving Tribal sovereignty over Tribal lands requires a unique approach. By combining responsive home purchase and development capital with efforts to build relationships between member banks, FHLB programs, and Tribal Nations, lenders can create a process that supports homeownership and economic development on Tribal lands. This approach considers the unique tenure status of Tribal trust lands and connects Tribal communities with necessary resources. FHLB Dallas can enhance outreach to Tribal Nations, Native CDFIs, and other Native-serving organizations on Tribal lands, and can tailor loan products and programs to meet the needs of Tribal communities.
- Keep people housed. More than 33,000 residents of District states are experiencing homelessness, and many more live in crowded homes, or are doubled up for economic reasons. Solutions that promote housing stability are needed for both renters and homeowners. Housing providers need capital and subsidies to support the production and preservation of low-cost rental homes for extremely low-income residents, and housing with on-site supportive services. For homeowners, programs that provide temporary forbearance during times of economic strain can help keep people housed.
- Create resilient housing and communities. Climate disasters are becoming more frequent. The impact on renters and homeowners is significant, particularly those with the lowest incomes. Recovery from a climate-related weather event can take time; some may not fully recover before the next disaster strikes. Households need resources to withstand and recover from natural disasters, as well as resources to create more climate-resilient homes, helping to mitigate the impact of future disasters.

Economic Development

- Support small businesses. Small businesses can provide jobs in a range of industries and are typically locally owned. Providing capital to support the development and growth of small businesses helps create jobs and grows local economies.
- Support workforce development. Workforce development efforts should focus on educating individuals for living-wage occupations, as well as supporting industries and businesses that provide living-wage jobs. Career training efforts may include new developing career pipelines with educational institutions, or on-the-job training and apprenticeships. Workforce development also entails making communities attractive to firms through improvements to infrastructure, resources, adequate public facilities, and housing.
- Increase access to mainstream financial services. Many households still lack access to mainstream financial services or rely on alternative financial services. This may be due to a lack of physical access or because they cannot afford the fees associated with banking products. Online banking and reduced service fees may support a greater uptake of banking services.

VIII. Native American and Tribal Communities in the Dallas District

The FHLB Dallas continues to identify and assess the affordable housing and community economic development needs of Native Americans and tribal communities in the district. The Dallas district contains 30 Federally recognized tribes, with a total population of over 262,000 people. The highest concentration of federally recognized native tribes are in New Mexico with 23, while there are also three tribes in Texas, three in Louisiana and one in Mississippi. The FHLB Dallas has also determined that there are 21 Tribally Designated Housing Entities & Housing Authorities in the district along with five Native Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs) based in the district. Of those Native CDFIs, three are based in New Mexico, one is in Texas and one is in Mississippi.

As noted in the Bank's 2024 District Needs Assessment, attaining homeownership is a key priority for many Tribal citizens within the FHLB Dallas District and nationwide. The necessity of preserving Tribal sovereignty over land, however, has posed challenges for Tribal citizens seeking conventional mortgages for properties in Tribal trust areas due to the fact that the mortgage market in the U.S. is built on collateralized loans secured by the lender's ability to seize both the structure and the land of a foreclosed property, and this process assumes fee simple ownership of land. As a result, Tribal governments, the federal government, and GSEs have developed lending products and Tribal foreclosure processes that offer access to capital without putting Tribal trust lands at risk, seeking to address the challenges of lending on trust land and meet the demand for homeownership among Tribal citizens. These approaches present a key opportunity for FHLB Dallas member banks and other lenders to provide capital to meet the housing needs of Tribal citizens. Residents of Tribal lands are more likely to own their homes than other District and U.S. residents, but major obstacles remain for households seeking mortgages to purchase or build homes on Tribal lands.

The FHLB Dallas has demonstrated a track record of serving tribal housing needs via the AHP. Since the inception of the AHP, the FHLB Dallas has awarded 28 AHP subsidies supporting tribal housing with 12 tribal communities, on and off reservation trust land totaling $4,889,224. Thus far, the FHLB Dallas has funded $3,228,209 in AHP subsidy to support 369 units of affordable housing.

Although there is regular use of the Dallas AHP General Fund by tribal housing entities in the district, the FHLB Dallas has determined that given the average median income of a tribal household of $39,873 and discussions with our partners in the district, the FHLB Dallas is committed to enhancing our relationships with tribal housing entities and other funders in the district in 2025 as noted in the Initiatives listed in Section XI of the plan below.

In 2024, the Bank launched the one-million-dollar Native American Housing Opportunities (NAHO) Fund to provide grants to support and meet the tribal housing needs in the district. This program is supporting the funding needs to seven tribal designated housing entities in the district including four in New Mexico, one in Louisiana, one in Mississippi and one in Texas.

Lists of the Native CDFIs and Native Housing Entities in the Bank's district and an overview of the AHP Awards for Tribal housing, may be found in the exhibits to the Targeted Community Lending Plan.

XII. Conclusion

These goals and initiatives coupled with the programs described here-in help the FHLB Dallas provide resources to our financial institution members to meet the needs in their communities as well as address those needs identified in the 2024 District Needs Assessment Report. With regards to the focal points of the Community Lending Plan Goals: Lending, Member Engagement, and Outreach & Education, the following describe how our Community Investment products and advances address the identified needs in the FHLB Dallas district:

Lending: The advance programs along with the FHLB Dallas Small Business Boost program provide members with low-cost financial options to support small businesses and economic development throughout the FHLB Dallas district. The programs address the identified Economic Development needs of stabilizing Small Business, support for vulnerable workers and support workforce development by providing members with multiple options to fund small business lending.

Member Engagement: Having a wide variety of members enrolled in and utilizing the FHLB Dallas Community Investment programs increase the opportunity to more broadly address the range of needs identified in the FHLB Dallas District Needs Assessment. Continuing to engage our membership with the HELP program promotes sustainable homeownership by supporting lending to first time homebuyers, while member engagement in SNAP helps address the identified needs to keep people housed and support accessible housing. Expanding the objective metrics to include member engagement with the AHP General Fund helps address the need to support affordable rental housing in the district. In 2024, The Bank introduced four new pilot programs. Three targeted the needs of non depository Community Development Financial Institutions and the fourth provided grants to Native American housing entities. The following describes each program:

Community Development Special Finance Program (CDSFP)

FHLB Dallas will provide a more favorable haircut to members who pledge single-family residential loans to certain income qualified borrowers. The pilot will support FHLB Dallas members, with a reduced collateral haircut (12 percent) for qualifying mortgage loans to certain income qualified borrowers (CDSFP Income Qualified Single-Family Residential loans or “CDSFP Qualified Loans”). The maximum amount of CDSFP Qualified Loans to be pledged under the Pilot Program is $200 million (after pricing and haircuts). Began March 1, 2024, and is open for two years.

Capacity Building and Growth Grant Pilot (CBGG)

Through the pilot, FHLB Dallas allocated $3.4 million in CBGG grants as well as FHLB Dallas staff expertise to CDFIs. The pilot will increase CDFIs’ ability to support affordable housing, small businesses and community economic development. The program began on March 5, 2024. In August 2024, $3,399,287 in grants were made to member and non-member non-depository CDFIs in FHLB Dallas' District. These grants were made to improve the ability of non-depository CDFIs’ to support affordable housing, small business and community economic development. Seven CDFI members and seven CDFI non-members were awarded monetary grants by the CBGG. The CBGG program’s impact will be evaluated in 2025 based on the results reported by awardees. It is not anticipated for CBGG to be offered in 2025.

Community Advancement through New Opportunities & Partnerships Yielding Results (CANOPY) Fund

FHLB Dallas will make available $35 million for unsecured loans to non-depository Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) members to support affordable housing and economic development lending programs in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico and Texas. Terms up to 10 years with the potential for five one-year renewal options are available. CANOPY promotes sustainable homeownership opportunities and community economic development, primarily supporting underserved, rural and low- to moderate-income households and communities in the district via financing to non-depository CDFI members.

CANOPY Fund borrowers enter into loan agreements with the Bank that define the terms of the borrowing arrangement. The Bank’s 2024 objective was to commit $35 million in long-term loans to non-depository CDFI members to support affordable housing and economic development in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico and Texas. The pilot will end on December 31, 2026.

One secondary but important result of these three CDFI oriented pilots is that three non- depository CDFIs joined the Bank as members in 2024.

Native American Housing Opportunities (NAHO) Fund

FHLB Dallas allocated $1 million in NAHO Fund grants to federally recognized tribes and Tribally Designated Housing Entities (TDHEs) to support housing needs of tribal members. The fund provides grants to federally recognized tribes and TDHEs to help meet the housing needs of their tribal members. The program began on June 3, 2024, and $1 million in awards to seven federally recognized tribes and Tribally Designated Housing Entities were announced in August 2024. Seven members in four states participated in the pilot. The NAHO program is planned to be offered again in 2025.

Outreach and Education: Education and outreach to our members and their community members are important to the success of our programs in addressing the needs in the FHLB Dallas district. With regard to disaster resiliency, our ability to effectively communicate and deliver assistance to our members on a timely basis is critical whether through the DRA or DRP programs or a more tailored approach to each event such as the Special Partnership Grant Program in response to COVID-19 or the Hurricane Recovery Grant program that assisted member employees that are harmed by hurricanes.

The FHLB Dallas also supports the financial education of low- to moderate-income people by not only supporting non-profit organizations that provide this training through the Partnership Grant Program, but also by providing funds to support homebuyer education via the HELP program. Financial education is an important part of improving access to traditional financial services for low- to moderate-income people. In 2025 we plan to explore opportunities with State Housing Finance Agencies in our district, as well as Freddie Mac, to expand how we provide financial education.

In the spirit of the FHLBank System 100 report issued by the FHFA in November 2023, the FHLB Dallas is committed to improving climate resiliency, expanding our financial support of non-depository CDFIs in our five state district, and increase Native American and tribal community access to our products and services.

Resilient Housing: There is a longer-term, but urgent need to promote resilience to future disasters. To help facilitate this, the Bank continued to offer a resilient housing scoring element in the AHP General Fund for 2024 and will maintain it in 2025. Within the FHLB Dallas District Priority, scoring for Resilient Housing, includes points for qualified housing projects built to the Insurance Institute for Business and Home Safety (IBHS) FORTIFIED building standard. FORTIFIED is a certification designed to minimize damage from a Category 3 hurricane such as those from Hurricane Ida that struck Louisiana in 2021. This standard includes a highly engineered roof system and a continuous load path which ties the structure of the house together and redistributes extreme wind to the foundation of the building. Les Maisons de Bayou Lafourche is an affordable rental housing project located in Lockport Louisiana that was struck by Hurricane Ida. This property, which received the first FORTIFIED Multifamily™ designation ever issued by the IBHS, was funded in part by an FHLB Dallas AHP subsidy. In seeing the successes of Les Maisons de Bayou Lafourche with handling the winds of Hurricane Ida, the FHLB Dallas determined through additional research that incenting and supporting the implementation of the FORTIFIED standard with the AHP General Fund scoring was an important step in promoting resiliency in the face of future natural disasters that may impact the Dallas district. In 2024, the FHLB Dallas continued and expanded its voluntary program to support the construction and retrofitting of owner-occupied homes to be certified under the FORTIFIED Roof designation. We believe that building stronger affordable housing structures via FORTIFIED will help those who can least afford to lose their homes to quickly return to their homes after a natural disaster.

In 2024, the FORTIFIED Fund received more than the $4 million in requests to support new roofs on over 300 homes. This program will be continued in 2025.

In the spirit of the Federal Housing Finance Strategic Plan, the FHLB Dallas is committed to helping ensure that the AHP General Fund provides subsidies to all five states in the Dallas district. As such, in 2024, the FHLB Dallas continued to offer additional scoring for AHP General fund applicants with projects located in the states of New Mexico and Arkansas. In 2024, this change in scoring led to two AHP General Fund application approvals in New Mexico and one AHP General Fund application approval in Arkansas. The FHLB Dallas expects to adjust the scoring for this factor in 2025 based on these results. A chart with this AHP award data is provided as an exhibit to this plan.

As the need for energy efficient housing remains, the FHLB Dallas continues to incent the construction of energy efficient and green building by recognizing a number of key green building and energy efficiency designations in the 2024 AHP General Fund scoring. This type of construction not only helps save residents money on utility costs but may also have positive environmental impacts. These designations are utilized by at least one of the five state housing agencies' Qualified Action Plans (QAPs) in the district so that affordable housing developers throughout the district can better coordinate their AHP General Fund application with the priorities of their state HFA.

Lastly, the FHLB Dallas will address the needs for affordable rental housing via the AHP General Fund. The FHLB Dallas in consultation with its Affordable Housing Advisory Council has established aspects of the 2024 & 2025 AHP General Fund scoring criteria to further support this need. First, the Implementation Plan provides points in the FHLB Dallas District Priority section for rental housing projects. To address the need for housing the homeless in the district, the FHLB Dallas chose to continue a scoring category for homeless housing for 2025. The FHLB Dallas also recognizes that the cost of developing affordable rental housing is increasing. As such, the FHLB Dallas is also maintaining a high maximum AHP award per project. Details of these changes may be found in the FHLB Dallas 2025 AHP Implementation Plan located at fhlb.com/community-programs.

This Targeted Community Lending Plan was reviewed and approved by the FHLB Dallas Board of Directors on December 5, 2024.
